Feedback and monitoring

This will be achieved by evaluations completed by staff members involved , pupil questionnaires and interviews with the school council.. Both the feedback and the questionnaires will form the basis of showing the impact that the activities have had at raising the quality of physical activity at Foxdell Infants School.

The difference it has made/will make:

Numeracy in Action is developing throughout the school. The pupils appear more engaged and are enthusiastic and keen to take part in learning.

The pupils have been very excited when the 'Sporting Specialists' have been in to teach and this has had an impact on pupil participation. Most of our pupils become very animated during the sessions and produce quality work. Staffs have also benefited working with the 'Specialists' and are becoming more confident with the delivery of Dance and Gym.

More clubs are going to be offered to children, during the school day, as a way of providing sporting opportunities for pupil to access.

The 'Play Buddies' have been a real success; the children are keen to lead games and have been promoting good Citizenship. The structured games have had an impact on promoting positive behaviour.

The lunch time P.E club has been very successful. We have had a huge uptake (especially the Active Adventure) The before and after school have not been as successful, to address this we have invited one of our sports provider into school so that he can 'show case' all of the clubs they could provide. We intend to ask the children, using our school council, which clubs that they would like in September.
